

WILL SIGN RAINES'S BILL, THEN EXPLAIN.

The Governor Likely to Affix His Signature To-morrow, with a Memorandum.

Suggestions of a Supplemental Measure, with Amendments, to Tide Over Objectionable Features, Probable.

PLATT IS AGREEABLE TO THIS.

An Emergency Message Likely to Be Forthcoming Which Will Embody the Points Filled with the Bill When Signed.

Albany, March 21.—It is expected that Governor Morton will sign the Raines Liquor Tax bill on Monday. That intimation was as good as given around the Capitol this afternoon, after the Governor had spent some time in a conference with Professor Lincoln, who is his legal adviser, and with his private secretary, Colonel Cole. Neither of the trio would talk about the bill, but it has not been difficult to learn the probable plan of action.

When he appends his signature to the measure, Governor Morton will probably file a lengthy memorandum with the new law, setting forth his reasons. His memorandum, it is likely, will contain a tactful reference to the coming passage of a supplemental bill which shall embody the amendments needed to avert the hardships which would otherwise come to a large part of the community under the Raines bill if not modified. It is said that Governor Morton will assert that the Raines bill is a great stride in the direction of morality and good government, and that with the several amendments which will be provided by the supplemental bill will make an almost perfect and ideal law. It is said here that Mr. Platt has been communicated with and that he readily concurred with the amendments which Governor Morton proposed. The Governor does not want it to be understood that he has used his power of veto to drive a bargain for concessions or anything of the sort.

MORTON LOOKS AHEAD.

The prediction that the Governor would be likely to insist on his own ideas on the subject of broadening out several provisions of the Raines bill has proved true very early. As a result of the Raines bill, it is likely that the Governor will be in the main either removed outright or so modified as to be in the main a commendation among the practical politicians that such action on the part of Governor Morton will remove several very serious obstacles to his further progress in public life. It will also give him an excellent chance to let the people at large know what he has done for them, and it is possible that he may in his own way take advantage of the opportunity. The vast amount of information which has been had before him about the defects in the Raines bill will make it easy for him to present his ideas when recommending the supplemental bill to the Legislature, as it is predicted by many that he will do when it re-assembles.

Some of his friends say that he contemplates a sort of emergency message that will embody the points made in the memorandum to be filed with the bill when signed. This will bring the matter directly before the law-making body, and in such a way that prompt action will be secured. It will also act as a notice to the more radical Republican reformers like Senator Baines, of Canaan, and Assemblyman Allen, of Chemung, that the narrow views of the rural districts do not fit well when applied to the entire State.

LEGISLATIVE BILL PROBABLE.

It is scarcely necessary to say that none of the legislators who reflect the sentiments of such communities will be in any position to oppose the supplemental bill if it has the Governor's endorsement. Without the Governor's endorsement, the bill would never have been possible to pass the Raines bill through either branch of the Legislature, and there are many of the members who will take very solid comfort in being able to vote for anything that changes some of the provisions of the original measure. If the Governor acts, as it now seems beyond a doubt that he will, the supplemental bill will be passed and placed before him for his signature within a fortnight.

VOICES OF THE GRATEFUL.

From Every State in the Union They Proclaim the Virtues of a Wonderful Remedy.

For a number of years readers of newspapers have been attracted by announcements of the beneficial results of one of the most famous remedies for human ills ever discovered. Every man, woman and child in the United States who can read, and all the civilized world over for that matter, has heard or read something about Paine's celery compound.

Physicians and scientists have indorsed it without limit, chemists have analyzed it and commended it, and millions of persons to whom health was restored, and who have voluntarily contributed to the dissemination of knowledge concerning its remedial and curative properties.

The most remarkable indorsement, however, ever given to any preparation for the amelioration of suffering humanity is that which appears in pages 22, 24 and 25 of today's Journal. No such consensus of opinion has ever been conferred upon any similar agent in the world's history, and it is a deservedly gratifying spirit that the proprietors present to the public the convictions and experience of an army of men who know whereof they speak.

The majority with which the druggists and chemists of the metropolitan district declare Paine's celery compound to be regarded by the public as the most wonderful of remedial agents is unprecedented. Thoroughly convinced of the efficacy of their remedy, from the enormous amount of sales, the proprietors concluded that they would by serving the public and benefiting suffering humanity by placing before the world in the most effective manner, the results of the exhaustive investigation they made in order to learn correctly and unmistakably the popular estimate of their great remedy.

After their remarkable success in New York, a canvass that included every street in Greater New York, the next question that presented itself to the proprietors of Paine's celery compound was how best to give the public the benefits. However marvellous a remedy may be, whatever good may be effected by the great celery compound, it is of little use unless known and used. The people must know of it, and must employ it. It was, therefore, a matter of the most serious consideration to determine the best methods to be employed to inform the whole people of the merits of Paine's celery compound and the extraordinary indorsements it has received.

Various advertising mediums were discussed, and it was finally decided that the Sunday Journal possessed the requisite qualifications in the highest degree. It might have been thought that the aims of the company operating this wonderful blessing to mankind would be subserved by a distribution of the thousands of recommendations it has received through several mediums, but as advertising and understanding business men, they concluded that the Sunday Journal would accomplish the purpose most effectively.

Three entire pages of the paper to-day are taken up in telling what an intelligent community of over three millions of people, represented by druggists and other dealers, think of Paine's celery compound. This is indisputably the grandest achievement ever presented to the thoughtful consideration of newspaper readers.

SNAP SHOTS AT THE REPUBLICANS IN EVIDENCE AT THE FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL YESTERDAY.

PLATT DELEGATES ARRIVE IN TOWN.

After a Handshake with Thomas C. They Begin to Push the Morton Boom.

Chairman Lauterbach Looked to for the Utter Undoing of the McKinley Cohorts.

A MASS MEETING FOR THE OHIOAN. General Wager Swayne Will Preside and One Hundred Vice-Presidents Will Be Provided—Making Ready for the Convention.

The delegates to the Republican State Convention, which opens on Tuesday, began to arrive in town yesterday. As fast as they came they made for the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where they shook hands with Mr. Platt, gave him a knowing wink, slapped Warner Miller upon the back and then clustered in small, mysterious groups, each one of which, you might have imagined, had this whole serious business of nominating, booming and electing the Presidential candidates upon its hands.

But that was only their little bluff. Delegates to a political convention always do that. "It's a cold, sad fact," said a veteran politician as he looked around at the many groups in the corridor, "that these nice chaps who look so mysterious will have no more to do with next Tuesday's convention than the clerk of this hotel."

Mr. Platt spent the day in his rooms thinking over what he was going to have the convention do. And he had many visitors who wanted to know what it was.

Warner Miller spent the greater part of the afternoon in the corridor of the hotel listening to tales of woe from country politicians who had long been waiting for an opportunity to see him. He is a magnificent listener. He can listen for hours without saying a word, and the expression of his face is always sympathetic.

ROOSEVELT'S MYSTERIOUS MISSION.

Theodore Roosevelt was there on a mysterious mission. He whirled in and whirled out again, and when he had gone every politician said to every other politician: "That fellow that just went out was Roosevelt."

Hamilton Fish looked very solemn and important, walked from one end of the corridor to the other and sat down. He was soon surrounded by a mysterious group.

Fredy Gibbs had a new supply of funny stories, but most of the delegates were too busy occupied in looking mysterious to listen to them.

Sol Berliner, unwilling to be left in the cold, assumed an expression of horrible mystery and, once every hour, entered the hotel at one door and, after making a complete tour of the ground floor, walked out by another.

Republican managers readily discussed yesterday the probable action of the State Convention. Mr. Platt was said to be at work upon the platform. According to "hints" given at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, the document will be unqualifiedly for Morton as the Presidential candidate of the Republican party, and a conservative tariff and sound money.

Cha. M. Depew had been counted on.

offer

To-morrow, Monday

he remainder

if their purchase of

All Black

Novelty Striped

Taffeta

Silks at 58<sup>c</sup> yd

Regular price 85c.

Also

48 Pieces

Extra quality

Printed White

Taffeta

Silks at 88<sup>c</sup> yd

Regular value $1.50.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

upon to talk down McKinleyism if it became demonstrative in the convention. But the Doctor cannot be present, so it is claimed, and this will throw all the work upon Edward Lauterbach.

ONLINEER SVSKA STINIK V

A mass meeting in favor of Governor William McKinley will be held at Cooper Union on Monday evening. General Wager Swayne will preside, and among the one hundred vice-presidents to be named will be Joseph H. Choate and Mayor Jewett, of Buffalo.

Chairman Lauterbach said yesterday that as the regular, or Platt, men carried twenty-six out of the thirty-five Assembly district conventions in this city, they would easily organize the convention in Grand Central Palace on Tuesday. In several of the districts where there were contests the Platt men secured their certificates at county headquarters, "and they will be seated," concluded the chairman.

Among the up-State Republican delegates who called upon Chairman Hackett yesterday were Senators Cornelius R. Parsons, of Rochester; George R. Malby, of Ogdensburg; Clarence Loxow, of Nyack, and H. J. Coggeshall, of Oneida; James M. E. O'Grady, of Rochester, the present leader in the Assembly; Speaker Hamilton Fish, ex-Senator Frank Hiseock, Bank Superintendent Kilburn, John S. Kenyon, and ex-Collector Hendricks.

"We're not afraid of McKinley's boom," said Abe Gruber in the Fifth Avenue Hotel corridor. "Wait till the regular batteries are opened on it. It will be knocked to splinters."

Several other Republican leaders were not so sanguine as the little lawyer. Frank Hiseock admitted it looked like a fight, but his hope was that the conservative tariff element would balance the scale in favor of Morton. Sap Speaker Fish:

"McKinley has not impressed the Legislature. The tariff candidate in Ohio has spread his wings too early."

Senator Parsons, who is to be temporary chairman of the convention, said he was for Morton to the last ditch.

Leader O'Grady said: "The Legislature will be ready to adjourn by April 23, and then we shall give our attention to the McKinley boom and battle it up."

The decorations of the convention hall are to be in blue and white, and bunting will be lavishly used. A platform to seat 250 has been built at one end, and is being covered in front with flags. Chairs for 3,000 spectators, in addition to those for delegates, were being put in position last night. A number of boxes along the sides of the hall and in the gallery will be used exclusively by women. On the walls are dozens of shields, decorated with crests and festoons of bunting. Inspector Cortright will be in charge of all police arrangements.

NEW FURNITURE AND CARPETS.

McClain, Simpson & Co. Save Retail Buyers Middleman's Profits.

The beginning of Spring always suggests the idea of housefurnishing and the general renovating process that well-ordered households usually undergo—tearing up old carpets, laying new ones, adding here and there new articles of use for ornamentation and replacing old and worn furniture with new pieces.

It will be of interest to every one to know that they can replace their old carpets this week at Messrs. McClain, Simpson & Co.'s, the large furniture and carpet dealers, at Eighth avenue and Thirty-seventh street, with brand new Brussels carpets at 37½ cents per yard. The firm is introducing their new Spring goods and the reason they can offer carpets so cheap is they save the middleman's profit, being wholesale dealers.

the following

Exceptional

Values

in their

Upholstery

Dept's

English

Cretonnes

choice

designs

and colorings

140 Pcs

Embr'd

Curtain

Muslins, at 25<sup>c</sup> yd

95 Pieces

Tamboured

Curtain

Laces, at 27<sup>c</sup> yd

250 Pairs

Frisled

Muslin

Curtains 95<sup>c</sup> pr

175 Pairs

mbr'd

rilled

Auslin

Curtains $2.75 pr

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

WILLIAM Q. JUDGE DIES SUDDENLY.

Associate of the Late Blavatsky and Chief of American Theosophists.

Expires Sitting in a Chair, Having Half an Hour Before Spoken of Going to Cincinnati.

AN OCCULT ADEPT'S STRANGE LIFE.

Successful Lawyer, Distinguished Scholar in Oriental Tongues, and Translator of the Hindoo Bible—Queer Beliefs of Admirers.

William Q. Judge, president of the Theosophical Society in America, and successor of the late Mme. Blavatsky, died unexpectedly at his residence, No. 235 West Fifty-sixth street, at 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

Mr. Judge was sitting in a rocking chair. Although ill for a long time, he had no thought of death. Only a half hour before he requested his wife to send a telegram to Dr. J. D. Buck, of Cincinnati, stating that he would go to that city for treatment next week.

With him were his wife, a nurse and Ernest T. Hargrove, a prominent London Theosophist, who has been lecturing in this country.

The funeral will be held Monday noon at the Theological headquarters, No. 144 Madison avenue. The body will be cremated and the ashes will doubtless be placed in the building, where a repose of the ashes of Mme. Blavatsky now repose in a sarcophagus.

Mr. Judge was born in Ireland, and there is much mystery enveloped in his life. According to Mme. Blavatsky, he was a member of a great Himalayan occult brotherhood, and about forty-seven years ago was disembodied and waiting for a chance to reincarnate on this earth. A child died as it was born, and the disembodied spirit of William T. Judge entered the body and went through life under that name. But

Stern Bros.

For Monday

the following

Exceptional

Values

in their

Upholstery

Dept's

English

Cretonnes

choice

designs

and colorings

15<sup>c</sup>

19<sup>c</sup>

25<sup>c</sup> yd

140 Pcs

Embr'd

Curtain

Muslins, at 25<sup>c</sup> yd

95 Pieces

Tamboured

Curtain

Laces, at 27<sup>c</sup> yd

250 Pairs

Frisled

Muslin

Curtains 95<sup>c</sup> pr

175 Pairs

mbr'd

rilled

Auslin

Curtains $2.75 pr

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

West 23d St.

though he looked like other men he was always believed by theosophists to be an adept and the possessor of remarkable occult powers.

A SUCCESSFUL ATTORNEY.

From early youth he was of mystical mind, and before he became of age he came to America. He practiced law for a number of years in Nassau street and was held in high esteem in legal circles. About 1872 he met Mme. Blavatsky, the high priestess of Theosophy, and being of sympathetic mind, he became her steadfast friend. He was one of the seventeen charter members of the Theosophical Society, which was organized in New York November 17, 1875, and was secretary of the meeting. He started the first branch of the parent society in this county, the Aryan Theosophical Society, of No. 144 Madison avenue, which now has a $40,000 headquarters.

He had been general secretary of the American section of the society since it came into existence until April, 1895, when as a result of charges brought by Annie Besant, supported by other European theosophists, against Mr. Judge, the American section dissolved its autonomy and changed its name to the Theosophical Society in America. As an answer to the charges of the European theosophists, the Americans elected him president for life, with power to nominate his successor in office. It is hoped that when Mr. Judge's effects are examined a nomination will be found among his papers. Meanwhile Dr. J. D. Buck, dean of Puitt Medical College, Cincinnati, who is vice-president, will fill the unexpired term. The annual convention of the society will be held in Chicago, April 28 next, and a new President will then be elected.

Several months ago Mr. Judge said that his illness had been brought on by twenty years of overwork, but had been brought to a crisis by Mrs. Besant's attacks, which have continued for more than a year. His friends do not doubt that this brought him to an untimely end.

MR. JUDGE'S WILL POWER.

Mr. Judge was possessed of a wonderful will power, and, according to a palmist, a broken life-line on his hand should have brought about his death several years ago. But the line was mended by will power.

Claude Falls Wright, secretary and confidential man to Mr. Judge, said last night that he believed Mr. Judge could have stayed off death again through will power, but that he must have forgotten himself for a moment while engaged in deep thought.

Mr. Judge, besides being a lawyer, was a philosopher, author, editor and lecturer. Among his published works are "The Ocean of Theosophy" and "Echoes from the Orient," and among his translations from the Sanskrit are "The Bhagavad-Gita," the Bible of the Hindoos, and "Patanjali's Yoga Aphorisms." He was the editor of the Path, the organ of theosophy in America, and was one of the editors of the Standard Dictionary. He received no salary as among his papers. Meanwhile Dr. J. D. Buck, dean of Puitt Medical College, Cincinnati, who is vice-president, will fill the unexpired term. The annual convention of the society will be held in Chicago, April 28 next, and a new President will then be elected.

Several months ago Mr. Judge said that his illness had been brought on by twenty years of overwork, but had been brought to a crisis by Mrs. Besant's attacks, which have continued for more than a year. His friends do not doubt that this brought him to an untimely end.

Mr. Judge, besides being a lawyer, was a philosopher, author, editor and lecturer. Among his published works are "The Ocean of Theosophy" and "Echoes from the Orient," and among his translations from the Sanskrit are "The Bhagavad-Gita," the Bible of the Hindoos, and "Patanjali's Yoga Aphorisms." He was the editor of the Path, the organ of theosophy in America, and was one of the editors of the Standard Dictionary. He received no salary as among his papers. Meanwhile Dr. J. D. Buck, dean of Puitt Medical College, Cincinnati, who is vice-president, will fill the unexpired term. The annual convention of the society will be held in Chicago, April 28 next, and a new President will then be elected.

Several months ago Mr. Judge said that his illness had been brought on by twenty years of overwork, but had been brought to a crisis by Mrs. Besant's attacks, which have continued for more than a year. His friends do not doubt that this brought him to an untimely end.

Mr. Judge, besides being a lawyer, was a philosopher, author, editor and lecturer. Among his published works are "The Ocean of Theosophy" and "Echoes from the Orient," and among his translations from the Sanskrit are "The Bhagavad-Gita," the Bible of the Hindoos, and "Patanjali's Yoga Aphorisms." He was the editor of the Path, the organ of theosophy in America, and was one of the editors of the Standard Dictionary. He received no salary as among his papers. Meanwhile Dr. J. D. Buck, dean of Puitt Medical College, Cincinnati, who is vice-president, will fill the unexpired term. The annual convention of the society will be held in Chicago, April 28 next, and a new President will then be elected.

Several months ago Mr. Judge said that his illness had been brought on by twenty years of overwork, but had been brought to a crisis by Mrs. Besant's attacks, which have continued for more than a year. His friends do not doubt that this brought him to an untimely end.

Mr. Judge, besides being a lawyer, was a philosopher, author, editor and lecturer. Among his published works are "The Ocean of Theosophy" and "Echoes from the Orient," and among his translations from the Sanskrit are "The Bhagavad-Gita," the Bible of the Hindoos, and "Patanjali's Yoga Aphorisms." He was the editor of the Path, the organ of theosophy in America, and was one of the editors of the Standard Dictionary. He received no salary as among his papers. Meanwhile Dr. J. D. Buck, dean of Puitt Medical College, Cincinnati, who is vice-president, will fill the unexpired term. The annual convention of the society will be held in Chicago, April 28 next, and a new President will then be elected.

Several months ago Mr. Judge said that his illness had been brought on by twenty years of overwork, but had been brought to a crisis by Mrs. Besant's attacks, which have continued for more than a year. His friends do not doubt that this brought him to an untimely end.